Abstract. The article dwells on the problems of the young generation formation and activation civic position in the electoral law field. The participation of youth in the elections has an important role in the development of the country. Every participant of the elections must understand that the future of the society and the state as a whole depends on his particular choice. In spite of the fact that the state is constantly improving social and state mechanisms for youth participation in the electoral process, the young generation activity is still insufficient, though it is growing every year. The most common method of detecting the problems is to carry out a survey among the students of the University and data analysis. Based on analysis of the sociological survey results, which was conducted among students, the authors made a number of proposals for improving the mechanism to involve the younger generation in the electoral process.

Keywords: elections; electoral laws; electoral rights; civic stand; young people; students; electronic vote.
